

We are excited to inform you of some upcoming changes to the ASCA Central Office. After much discussion, deliberation and exploration, the Board of Directors has decided that it is time to leave Texas A&M University, our host institution. Given technological abilities, current practices of similar associations, and how our members utilize the central office, it is no longer needed to have a physical central office location. A move to a completely independent association will allow us to utilize 21st Century business practices, be fiscally responsible, and to provide the best, possible service to our members.

We are extremely grateful for the partnership with Texas A&M and the support they have provided to ASCA for the past 30 years.

This will be in effect on September 1st. What does this mean for you? We anticipate the impact to be minimal. We ask that you start with updating our email addresses. We can be contacted at the following:
